

Public Health Department

Local Public Health Departments offer several services to aid individuals in the community. Programs and services offered include health clinics, services for women who are pregnant or have recently given birth, Certified Home Health Agencies to assist the housebound, ill individuals, and caregivers. Assistance is also offered through early intervention programs that identify children with development disabilities and assist parents in becoming educated and adjusting to the child's needs and locating resources. Some local offices offer long-term care assistance to allow individuals to remain in the community. Programs vary from county to county so it is important to verify the individual county offerings.
